EDUCATION OF THE SEXES.

A Medical View of the Experiment at the University of Wisconsin.

From the Philadelphia Medical Times.

In the report of the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin for 1877 we find some statements which bear so directly upon the interminable discussion as to the relative capacity of the sexes for mental labor, that we deem them worthy of passing notice. One of the rules of the university, where the experiment of co-education has now been carried on for some years, requires a number of gentlemen not immediately connected with the institution to be present at the annual examinations, and to make a report thereupon to the Regents. In pursuance of this duty, their report, after alluding to the general facilities for instruction, the apparatus employed in the several departments, etc., expresses the very important conclusion. The young women sustained the tests of examination at least as creditably as the young men, and excelled in the precision and promptness with which they responded to questions. The Board of Visitors were, however, deeply impressed with the appearance of ill health which most of the girls presented, and it did not seem to them probable that by mere co-education so many young women should be so completely prostrated. The report, however, is not so unqualifiedly favorable to the experiment. The hygienic condition of the university being excellent, they were compelled to look elsewhere for the cause, and believe that they have found it in the fact that the curriculum, requiring both classes of students to be subjected to the same systematic training, makes no allowance for those periods at which women require more or less complete physiological rest. They allude to overwork as a cause of anemia, and add: "It is this very condition of bloodlessness which is so noticeable in the women of the university at this time; the features are poorly colored, the lips are pale, the eyes, the lack of color, the want of physical development in the majority, and some absolute expression of anemia in very many, all indicate that demands are made upon them which they cannot meet."

The President of the University, in a tone of ill-considered wrath, after thanking the Board of Visitors for not allowing their critical acumen to suffer by disuse, regretted that they have reopened a controversy which he considered closed, and remarking that "to be pushed back into the water when we have just reached shore, is trying—an undignified and unbecoming attempt to refute their assertions."

He says: "The faculty pronounce earnestly and unanimously in favor of the maintenance of the present method."

It may not unfairly be remarked that there are but few instances in which faculties have not been equally and justly decided against any charge which lessened their prestige and diminished their classes, even when the opportunities for observing the errors of their ways have been greater than in the present instance. The opinion of the Board of Visitors, ceteris paribus, is much more likely to be impartial and unprejudiced.

The applications for leave of absence on account of poor health have been in greater proportion among the young men than the young women. This may be obviously accounted for by the modesty which would naturally prevent many of the latter from presenting their ailments to a male instructor, and particularly by the unscrupulous mendacity which the average male student evinces whenever there is to be a game of base ball, a boat race, or a country fair within walking distance, that it cannot be considered a great secret.

The Regents, in commenting upon these counter-claims, remark that it is not claimed that the problem of co-education has been finally determined in its relations to capacity for mental culture, and still less in its relation to the personal association of the sexes in our universities, but that, however it may be, no doubt ought to obtain as to the duty of the University of Wisconsin to maintain that higher standard of instruction by which alone it can claim an honest title to its proper rank and name. They add: "And it, unfortunately, there are students, or classes of students, unfitted by nature or preparatory training for the extent of progress and intellectual development necessary to entitle them to the honors and rewards of university education, obviously their place is elsewhere."

Railroad Speed and Accidents.

New York Tribune.

The famous answer of George Stephenson to the Parliamentary inquiry as to what would be the consequence of a great increase of speed upon railways remains as true now as when he uttered it, although a German Professor, Herr Scheffler, has apparently found that answer—"Loss of life"—too brief for his satisfaction, and by an elaborate comparison of statistics and mathematical basis. He concludes that the danger of accidents to life or limb increases with the square of the speed of the train. From this it appears it would require a vastly higher speed than is usually attempted, to double a passenger's risk of falling through an unsafe bridge. The chances of damage to the railway track or the rolling-stock of the road are still less affected by greater rapidity of travel, since they increase only in proportion to the cube of the speed. The latter feature is not a reassuring comparison; passengers may have cause to wish that they were rolling-stock.

Columbus as a Child.

Columbus was a mild, sweet dispositioned, but exceedingly thoughtful boy, as I remember him at school. When we boys were out playing he would sit and watch the map of the world, and he would tell us something was wanting. He was satisfied with three-quarters of the globe, which was as employed in the schools at that time. He pined for the other quarter. I recollect his borrowing a quarter of men on two or three occasions. As we were a continent out somewhere, and that when he got big enough he meant to run away from home, go on the canal and discover it; but we only laughed at him, little thinking that he would yet give his name to the capital of Ohio. I lost all trace of Christopher until years afterward, when the telegraph brought the announcement of his having discovered America, which, up to that time had successfully eluded the most persistent efforts of our best discoverers.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

The penetrating winds incident to this season of the year are severe and for the lungs.

The lungs are the most delicate of the organs, and are the most susceptible to the action of the winds, which, not infrequently result in Consumption.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP will at once relieve and loosen a tight cough and is such an agreeable remedy that children will take it without being coerced. A cold on the lungs, if consumption is already developed, may be easily mastered by the use of the Pulmonic Syrup, together with Schenck's Sassafras Pills to clear the system of the accumulated mucus.

In more serious cases, where the disease has become deeply seated, and the patient suffers from loss of appetite, weakness and emaciation, SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC should be used in connection with the above mentioned remedies, to stimulate the appetite and bring the digestive powers into healthy action, thereby sustaining the strength of the patient and enabling him to resist the progress of the disease until the PULMONIC SYRUP may perform its healing and cleansing work.

The use of these standard remedies according to the directions which accompany them, cannot fail to produce most successful results. A letter addressed to Dr. Schenck, care, Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, asking advice, will promptly receive the Doctor's personal attention, free of charge.

Schenck's Medicines are for sale by all Druggists.

On account of the illness of Mrs. James Burgess the Post will not be issued today.

The Knights of Honor have elected Rev. T. P. Sawin as their chaplain. A good choice.

The Presbyterians will give a pleasant social at the home of Mr. Hazleton, on South Jackson street, to-night.

The ladies fortnightly social at All Souls will be postponed to-morrow on account of affliction in the society.

The replevin case in which Dr. Hancock's household goods are involved, is still on the boards at Justice Balch's.

Misses Maria N. and Kate A. Williams, daughters of S. G. Williams, intend spending the next few weeks with St. Louis friends.

The almanac says that during this week there will be rain with some snow, but then the almanac was written up some time ago.

Edwin Clifford has engaged the Opera house for the 18th and 19th and possibly the 20th inst. He will bring to the city a good company.

There will be a social under the auspices of the First Methodist church at the residence of Mr. James Croft in the Fourth ward next Wednesday night.

The Musical Club meet to-night at Prof. Fillmore's rooms, in spite of different announcements made by other papers. Music lovers will act accordingly.

The Mutual Improvement Club had an interesting session last evening in accordance with the programme announced in yesterday's Gazette. The attendance was rather slim.

One freight train on the Northwestern road passed through the city with seventeen cars of ice bound for Chicago. There would be no scarcity of meat junks at that rate.

The authorities have quickly acquiesced with the suggestion made by the Gazette, that the law should treat all men alike, and have placed Joe Cook with the rest of the gang of shovellers.

Rev. J. L. Jones lectures to-night before the Sons of Temperance in their hall on Main street. He will tell why "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." It is said to be one of his best efforts.

A son of George Reese had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon. Another boy shot at him with a cross-bow using a nail as an arrow tip. It grazed his temple inflicting a slight wound.

Mr. D. D. Wilson discovered yesterday in J. W. Luca, of the Hyers troupe, an old acquaintance of many years ago. Luca was then a young man and Wilson was teaching singing school in Ithaca, N. Y., and had him for one of his pupils.

The men in the employ of Barr Robbins, of circus fame, have applied for a charter for the organization of a Temple of Honor, to be composed entirely of Mr. Robbins' employees. Robbins' name leads all the rest. The move is a good one, and it is to be hoped will be pushed forward to a successful completion.

There was one frightened driver yesterday afternoon and two frightened nags. He drove his team into the river for a drink, just south of the dam, and failed to calculate on the depth of the water. He found his hind wheels floating, and the box taking a swim down stream. After a brief spell of floundering about he managed to get the steeds out, and fish out his wagon in pieces.

There have been certain reputable citizens who have carelessly been creating a nuisance by emptying their ash pits over the railings of the Milwaukee street bridge, causing ash to fly about in all directions, soiling ladies' dresses, and making a sad mess on the walk. Marshal Keating caught a doctor at the trick this morning and administered a just reprimand in the presence of passers-by. He is evidently no respecter of persons.

Mrs. James Burgess, one of Janesville's oldest and most respected residents, is lying very ill, and her death is hourly expected. The report was current among friends to-day that she had already breathed her last, but at 8 o'clock she was still alive though unconscious and evidently fast approaching the end. Mrs. Burgess was suddenly taken with laryngitis last Friday, and has since been growing rapidly worse until there is no hope of her recovery.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 42 degrees above and at 2 o'clock at 66 degrees above. Cloudy and windy. One year ago to-day the thermometer stood at 33 degrees, and 33 degrees above, and a snow storm was raging.

WHO FIRED THE SHOT?

This morning when Echlin & Foote's clothing store was opened it was discovered that some one had during the night fired a revolver at the rear window, the ball passing through the outside wooden shutter and two panes of glass and had fallen on one of the shelves. From the direction taken by the ball it appears that the unknown shooter must have stood in the alley and fired from some elevation as the ball passed downward in its course. What could have been the occasion of the shooting is a mystery not yet solved, and all sorts of surmises, as various as they are foolish, have been the outcome of the discovery of the bullet hole.

BADGER STATE PATENTS.

The following patents were issued from the United States Patent Office to citizens of Wisconsin for the two weeks ending February 12, 1878. Reported for the Gazette by S. A. Hudson, Attorney at Law and Solicitor of Patents, Lappin's block, Janesville:

Coffee pots—Charles C. Kribbs, Trempealeau.

Tallying machines—Walter W. Durand, Milwaukee.

Harvesters—James Harris, Janesville.

Mowers—James Harris, Janesville.

Automatic wagon brakes—Lars Jaham, Blaine.

Horse collar fastener—Chas. W. Potts, Sparta.

A THIN STORY.

Justice Patten has been busy to-day investigating the case of Nels Richards who is charged with burglarizing some barn houses. It was brought out in the prosecution that some of the stolen hams were found secreted in Richards' house and that he denied any knowledge of them or their whereabouts. In defense Richards claimed that he met a man whom he formerly knew in Whitewater, and this man learning that Richards was hard up, told him he would make a raise for him. Afterwards he found the hams on the back steps and took them in out of the cold and hid them in a closet. He gave the man a bag which was returned with the hams. This man had moved to some unknown place in Kansas. The examination was still in progress at time of going to press.

THE THIEVES ESCAPE.

The tramps who went through Mr. C. Sexton's house, Sunday afternoon, seem to have an easy time of it getting out of Janesville. The officers did not show any great shrewdness or they might have captured the fellows, for there was only one train going out of the city Sunday night, and they boarded that without being apprehended by any hand of the law. One of them had three pairs of pants on, one over the other; another had a coat supposed to be Mr. Sexton's. They pretended to be very drunk, and were not discovered until near Clinton where they were promptly bounced. They jumped off the train into a deep ditch filled with water and got badly soaked. They then proceeded to Beloit where they offered some of the clothing for sale. Since then they have not been heard from. The third one of the party, supposed to have been one of the plunderers, stole into a car filled with ice, and placing a thin piece of board over the cakes, made up a rather chilly bed, and reclined on this, thus hidden, until he reached Chicago. The next time a theft occurs the trains will probably be watched.

THE HYERS SISTERS.

There was a fine audience at the Opera house last evening both in numbers and in the make-up. There were high expectations among many as to the entertainment to be furnished by the Hyers sisters, yet for the most part these expectations were fully met. The company consists of Miss Annie M. Hyers, soprano, Miss Emma Hyers, contralto, who sang so successfully in the peace jubilee some years ago; Miss Dora Mayo, a fine vocalist and actress; Mr. Wallace King, tenor; Mr. J. W. Luca, bass; Mr. Sam Lucas, comedian and character vocalist, one of the original end men of the Georgia Minstrels, and Misses Grace Overall and C. O. Brown.

There was little of plot to the play, but it served well the purpose for which it was created as a sort of usher to introduce the artists, and relieve the awkwardness of any recesses. It represents in three acts, the condition of a happy family of colored folks in their Southern cabin home, the coming of the Union army and their release from slavery, their journey to the North and the improved condition after a stay of five years among the white folks. In their specialties the troupe cannot be excelled.

Mr. Sam Lucas is one of the best of negro comedians. He is sprightly, and seems running over with genuine wit and humor, which bubbles forth ever fresh. The Hyers sisters are indeed sweet singers and in their parts are indeed drawing cards. Mr. Luca's bass voice is clear and heavy. Mr. King sang some beautiful tenor solos. As soloists the troupe show much merit but it is mainly in their choruses that the greatest harmony is brought forth. There has probably been no better chorus singing in Janesville.

There is a diversity of fun and frolic, sharp hits, and ludicrous actions that serve as a happy background for the musical treat which stands forth as the attractive feature of the entertainment. The troupe is well worthy of the liberal patronage which it is every where receiving. The same company will appear again at the Opera house to-night, but with an entire change of the musical programme.

THE PAMPHLET MISSION.

To the Editor.

In your issue of Saturday, you say "the Unitarians have started a publication in Chicago called 'The Pamphlet Mission.' Allow me to correct the statement by saying that the Unitarians are not responsible for this publication. It has no denominational affiliation and no sectarian end to serve. It is simply a 'pamphlet mission' for Freedom Fellowship and Character in Religion and will aim to represent the tendency towards and the advocates of this platform wherever found or wherever they may be. Among the list of contributions for the first six months we have secured such names as Dr. Thomas, Prof. Swing, Rabbi Kohlen, as well as such as O. B. Frothingham, J. Freeman Clarke and W. F. Chadwick. If the Unitarians are any more nearly related to this Pamphlet than other denominations, it must be owing to the fact that they accept more heartily this platform of absolute freedom of thought in matters of religious untrammeled fellowship between those of differing opinions and character as the supreme end of religion. Soliciting the attention of your readers to this venture, specimen copies of which can be obtained at the bookstores of the city or at my study, I am, yours, on behalf of the Publishing Committee, JENK L. JONES.

But Just to Say.

It is but just to say that the firm of Steele & Price were the first to place in the market articles for culinary purposes that are strictly pure and wholesome. Their Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder has obtained its popularity and extended sale by the purity of the materials.

Chicago Market.

CHICAGO, March 11
The afternoon markets were well attended and there was a fair amount of trading.

Wheat—The market on spring wheat. The reaction promised at the close of 'Change on our last report was to some extent realized to-day. The upward movement was somewhat less hesitating in character to suit the bulls, yet the change experienced was sufficient to show that with unsettled wheat to interfere with the receipts, or the appearance of anything, no matter how slight or important, to disturb confidence or trade, the bears had better prepare for a rise. The market, though nervous, was strong in its tendency; legitimate business was fair for the season, and prices averaged 1/4c higher all around. The shorts bought freely, and in speculative circles generally the bull turn occasioned considerable excitement. Eastern and foreign advices were if anything, a little unfavorable, though as the trade was mainly local, and the home feeling on the side of better prices, they exerted little or no influence. Cash No 2 closed at 1 05 1/2c; 1 05c.

The latest report on No 2 spring wheat was active and stronger, seller March being about 1c above April, and seller May about 1/2c above April—generally 1c; seller April sold at 1 04 1/2c; 1 05c, and closed with buyers at 1 05c.
